Team Development

These programmes are designed to bring out a number of traits - team building, listening, trust, communication, learning to use peers' strengths - while having fun and laughing with each other.

Intensity of the programmes can be modified to suit each group. Programmes to suit all shapes, sizes and genders being more mental than physical, and requiring each person to think outside the square.

The program can also be adapted to enhance product knowledge, ideal for new products. By incorporating your product into the brainteasers we can add a novel twist to each activity.

Examples of team building activities

BASIC TRAINING

Two-part activity with a focus on brainstorming, teamwork, strategy, and listening carefully.

Part one: think about the task set, and come up with the best way to go about it.

Part two: complete a mini obstacle course, within the guidelines set.

M*A*S*H* CAMPSITE

Designed to promote listening and communication skills while encouraging trust amongst members.

Each group must move a set of equipment to their area, and erect their campsite. The catch: half of each group are blindfolded, and only those blindfolded may touch the equipment.

ROPE BRIDGE

Created to encourage teamwork, listening and clue-finding.

Teams follow a manual (complete with diagrams) to construct a rope swing bridge across a ravine.

Once constructed the team must transport a product across the ravine.

RAFT RACE

Designed with a focus on teamwork, negotiation, and communication.

Teams must create a raft with the materials provided and use it to transport themselves to the finish line.

BARRICKS BUILDING

Designed to promote listening and communication skills while encouraging trust amongst members.

Each group must transport a set of equipment from despatch to their building site and then construct the barricks and the rest of the camp compound, including camo nets, and sand bags. Again, half of the team is blindfolded, and only those blindfolded may touch the
